Cloture Rule on Irish Free State Bill Cuts Off Amendments; Southern Parliament Dissolved.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

LONDON, March 7.—All members from Ulster walked out of the house of commons yesterday when a cloture rule was adopted on the operative provisions of the Irish Free State Bill which declare that the treaty shall have the force of law. The cloture rule was adopted by a vote of 182 to 51 during the committee stage of the bill.

After the walkout, the commons adopted the operative provisions of the bill and, by a vote of 217 to 36, adopted the amendment dissolving the southern parliament and providing for elections within four months after the passage of the Free State Bill and the committee stage was concluded amid cheers.

The cloture rule eliminated consideration of 14 proposed amendments and was vehemently resisted by Capt. Charles Craig of Ulster who declared that the government had refused to alter a line of the bill at the request of Ulster but when Dublin people passed a resolution in favor of changes the government immediately acquiesced. Upon passage of the cloture rule Craig announced that Ulster would not participate further in the discussions.

Dispatches from Belfast say that border troubles are expected to result from the sentencing of Republicans by the County Down assizes. James Monaghan, commandant of the republican army was sentenced to a prison term of seven years and his two brothers to terms of one year and six months respectively.

Bloodshed Continues

This morning's dispatches from Belfast said gunmen were busy in the Sinn Fein district despite efforts of police and military patrols. One was killed and one injured in the firing which continued throughout the night. The military surrounded the district and swept it with machine gun fire.

In Limerick the situation was reported as quiet but tense. The city is occupied by three distinct factions, British troops which have not yet evacuated, Free State troops and the republican army.

Several detachments of Free State troops are reported to have left Dublin in dispatches from there, destination being unannounced but believed to be Limerick.

After 33 Years on Maui E. B. Carley Is
Away To Honolulu

E. B. Carley, for 33 years a resident of this island and during much of that time one of its best known residents is about to leave Maui for Honolulu. Mrs. Carley and their daughter Florence went over to the capital city on Saturday night while Mr. Carley remains to dispose of their household belongings which are to be sold at auction on March 18. A position as telephone inspector awaits him in Honolulu.

It was E. B. Carley who installed the first telephone central on Maui and as superintendent in those early days he did much to popularize the Maui Telephone Company. At election time he would invite the public in to receive the returns as was told in the columns of this paper and retold in "Twenty Years Ago," only a few months since.

In their long stay in the Valley Isle the Carleys made many friends who sincerely regret their departure and wish them all possible good fortune.

"There are many reasons why I hate to leave Maui," remarked Mr. Carley last Saturday. "After being in one place so long, one becomes sort of rooted to it and the tearing up and cutting off of the roots is painful. We shall miss Maui and our Maui friends greatly."

Murphy Moves To Have
Substitute Named In Absence of Sheriff

Upon the application of Eugene Murphy an order was issued from the circuit court by Judge Burr Friday afternoon directing Sheriff Clem Crowell to show cause why an elisor should not be appointed to conduct the business of his office.

Murphy in his application for the order alleged that Sheriff Crowell has left the county and gone to Kauai to campaign for Baldwin for delegate assizes such absence is illegal and leaves the office with no one to conduct it and perform the sheriff's duties. He asserted that the interests of a client of his was injured as there was no one to carry out the proceedings in an attachment asked in such case. Judge Burr made the order returnable Saturday morning.

In court Saturday morning County Attorney Bevis filed a reply to Murphy's application for Sheriff Crowell by George Cummings, deputy sheriff of Wailuku and ex-officio deputy sheriff of Maui. The reply says that the duties of the office are being properly conducted by the ex-officio deputy sheriff and other deputies in Crowell's absence and in the specific instance complained of by Murphy the papers were properly signed by him and sent to the Makawao deputy for service. He alleges that Crowell is absent either with the permission of the Chairman of the board of supervisors or on vacation permitted him by the territorial laws and is not absent illegally or without authority.

When the case was called up in court Saturday morning Murphy asked for a postponement for a week, which the court granted over the objection of the county attorney, the court saying that the complaint came from Murphy, if any one was being injured it was the client of Murphy and if the applicant for the order was willing under those circumstances to postpone the hearing he could see no reason why the request should not be granted.

Murphy's reasons for asking postponement were that the reply was served as he was coming into court and he had not had time to read it.

Soldiers' Bonus Is Meeting More Snags

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Republican members of the ways and means committee have encountered some unexpected difficulties which will delay presentation of the proposed soldiers' bonus measure for several days.

It is understood that an unsuccessful effort was made to confine the bonus largely to adjusted service certificate options and that other difficulties met are not serious. The Republican members will resume consideration of the measure and hope to complete it some time today after which it will be submitted to the Democrats.

The senate yesterday by a vote of 63 to 14 adopted the change in rules which centralizes appropriation powers in the appropriations committee thus completing congressional coordination with the budget system. The house acted similarly at the last session.

Later today it was announced that an agreement has been reached by a compromise. Fordney announced that the measure will be formally presented to the House on Saturday. The measure carries four portions, a provision for a bank loan, on adjusted service certificates, vocational training, home and farm aid and land settlement with an added provision for an immediate cash payment to former service men entitled to no more than $50 on adjusted service.

On the Big Island Senator Baldwin ended his personal speaking campaign Friday night but the campaign is being conducted by Sam Kalama and other leaders in his absence and Kalama will end his visit tonight. Senator Baldwin had expected to return to Hawaii on the Kilauea this morning but was unable to do so.

Senator Baldwin returned home because of the illness of Mrs. Baldwin who suffered an attack of throat trouble and was ordered back to Maui by her physician. He then expected to return to Hawaii today but on reaching home he found business would prevent.

It has been a busy ten days campaign on Hawaii and one which is highly encouraging to the Republicans for the tide is reported as flooding to the Maui man from all directions. Senator Baldwin participated in the campaign for five days.

On Sunday the speaking campaign was opened with an early start at Pahoa, Kalapana, Ophikao and Kapoho. John Wise, Norman Lyman and others as well as Baldwin spoke, and the Republican candidate is reported to have made a splendid impression on his hearers.

"While I did not personally lead the fight for this position," said Senator Baldwin, "now that I have been selected as the candidate of the Republican party I welcome the opportunity. It was represented to me by the delegates to the Republican Convention that my services were required for the benefit of all, but particularly for the Hawaiians. I am running as delegate to Congress for the unexpired term of the late Prince Kuhio Kalaniana'ole, and my platform will be in every respect, identical with that of the late Prince. It will be my endeavor to complete the unfinished work of the late Prince."

Many Meetings Held

Monday night there was a big and enthusiastic meeting at Olaa with speeches by Baldwin, Sam Kalama, Wise, Lyman, County Attorney Beers, County Treasurer Swain, Charles Makekai, Mrs. Saffery, Henry Lyman and Joachim Z. Jeremiah, formerly of Maui, now a Waialeale homesteader. After the meeting the party which included Rev. Stephen Desha and Supervisor Julian Yates proceeded to the Volcano House for the night.

Yesterday the meetings were at Laupahoehoe and Hakalau Theater and this afternoon and tonight, respectively, the meetings will be at Honomu Theater and Papaikou armory.

Glowing Reports Made

Reports from every district the party has visited coming to the Hilo papers show an enthusiastic greeting for the candidate and Hawaii party leaders are growing more and more confident of a sweeping victory on the Big Island.

Other advices show that Sam Kalama and Charles Makekai are doing splendid work among the Hawaiians assisted by the Hawaiians of the Big Island and a splendid demonstration of harmony is being made.

Mrs. Herrscher Calls
Mayor Wilson's Hand
At Honolulu Meeting

Recently, in Honolulu, as has been mentioned in editorial comment in this paper, Mayor John H. Wilson spoke at a meeting held under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Club, advocating the election of McClellan and saying that his interests were more diversified and representative than those of Baldwin who had "all his eggs in one basket," was interested only in sugar and pineapple industries. Mrs. Joseph Herrscher of Hana, according to information coming to Maui News, challenged Mayor Wilson and inquired if Hawaii had many important manufacturing enterprises. When Wilson replied "No," Mrs. Herrscher continued:

"Then, doesn't Hawaii depend on its sugar and pineapple; and furthermore isn't it a fact that many widows and orphans and children are dependent on sugar and pineapple incomes and dividends as to their investments? If we fail to elect Harry Baldwin as our representative to congress, what chance would or could we have under a Republican President, senate and congress for a relief in this present state of affairs confronting us?"

"Both my husband and myself know what our people need, and especially my husband who has held many political positions, is out for the election of Mr. Baldwin. We are heavily interested here and have the success of the Hawaiian people at heart, and we ask of you ladies not alone to cast your vote for Mr. Baldwin, but induce your friends and neighbors to save us from a defeat, which would mean a disgrace to our people."

"My stay in Honolulu will be brief, but I feel assured that Mr. Baldwin will carry the day."

Trip To Haleakala
Described By Hunter

"Goat hunting is lots of fun." So said L. L. "Bazz" Roberts, manager of the Maui Drug Company, when relating the experiences of himself and party occasioned by their trip to the Ulupalakua ranch over the last week end.

The party consisting of A. Doran, J. Harvey Raymond and Roberts left Wailuku Thursday afternoon and went by automobile to the Raymond ranch. They spent the night as the guests of Harvey Raymond and early the following morning started on horseback for Kahikini a distance of about 15 miles from the ranch house. They reached there at noon and spent the remainder of the day in hunting. Concerning the marksmanship of the party the bag of the afternoon, four goats and two wild turkeys, is "huff sed."

Friday night was spent in an old, deserted house at Kahikini and Saturday morning a trip to the crater was begun. Hunting consumed the entire day and before night fell upon the party three more goats had fallen before their fire.

Roberts told of a laughable incident that happened on Saturday and furnished the amusement during the trip. He said "We were working our way up a slope when suddenly we came upon a band of goats. Raymond picked one as his particular quarry and I designated one for Doran to shoot at and I picked another. When we fired, Doran and I found that we both were shooting at the same goat but our shots apparently had no effect upon it. The goat turned and looked at us and we shot again. Again we missed. Then the goat started slowly away walking towards a cliff. Doran shot at it again, the bullet entering the goat's hind quarter and with a leap the goat jumped clear of the cliff and down into the chasm below. Doran was a good shot but could not get the goat."

The party left all the goats at the ranch and returned to Wailuku Sunday night.

Short rations of sleep were in order for they had to rise early to board the Kilauea.

It is expected the party will return to Kahului tomorrow on the return trip of the Kilauea and then meetings in Central Maui will be in order.

New Angle Presented
In Taylor Mystery;
Letter Confesses

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—Another new angle in the Taylor murder mystery developed when the police department yesterday made public a brief part of a ten page letter purporting to be a confession received from Atlantic City. The letter purports to have been signed by a person prominent in the movie world.

The letter says in part: "We South Americans always take care of our women. I killed the * * *, which is a mild description of the man who, hiding behind a polished manner, won the regard of many women only to cast them aside."

The police department said the letter purports to be from a man who asserts in it that his wife was wronged by Taylor, that a person of the name signed to the letter left Los Angeles about the time of the murder and has previously been considered in connection with the investigation.

Children's Night At
Hipp Is Here To Stay

No doubt of the success of "Children's Nights" at the Wailuku Hipp remained before the performance of last Friday evening was half over. At its close certainly had been made more sure. The children liked the program and said so vociferously and the grown ups who were there added an emphatic approval.

It was a different program that was offered. There was a News Weekly, a Burton Holmes Travelogue, comedy and vaudeville stuff. The youngsters said they liked it and the adults liked it because it was something different from the usual run. Success of the first effort means a continuance of the project, so Friday night is Children's Night at the Hipp.

Manager Harris promises a good program for the coming Friday and at that time the children whose names were published last week as prize winners will receive the free tickets offered for the best essays.

Parents and teachers like the Friday night for children idea for the reason that it does not in any way interfere with school attendance or fitness for school work, with the Saturday school holiday following it.

Threat of Death
Followed by Fire;
Woman Flees

Blackmailing Letter Received By Occupant of Lahaina-luna Cottage Which is Later Burned

Attempted blackmail and incendiarism appear to be connected with the fire that destroyed a cottage at Lahaina-luna School last Friday evening. The police and others are investigating but thus far without any resulting arrests. The burned cottage was near the old stone building used as a machine shop and was occupied by Mrs. Hillner, the matron of the school.

Mrs. Hillner, according to the stories the police have developed, was lying down in her room, clad in a kimono, resting after her duties of the day when her attention was attracted by something fluttering through the transom over the door of the room and falling on the floor. At first she paid no attention to it but later rose to see what it was. Opening the paper Mrs. Hillner says she found it was a letter, well written in a flourishing hand writing. As she read it she found a demand for $75 with a threat to kill her if she did not give it to the writer and in any event, whether she paid or not, to kill her if she told of the letter.

Flees From House

In a panic, Mrs. Hillner decided to take refuge in flight. She slipped off her shoes and put on a pair of Japanese sandals so as to move noiselessly and not be heard by any one lurking near the house and decided to slip out the rear door, the other side of the house from which the note came. She did not, however, in her haste, take the note with her. It was then, as she recollects it, about 7:30 o'clock.

Carrying out her quickly formed plan she fled to the house of George Putnam, the principal, and reporting to him. The two of them proceeded to the house of Samuel Mookini, one of the teachers, and it was decided to see whether all the scholars were in the dormitories, considering the possibility of a practical joke. At the dormitories all of the scholars were found except the members of the basketball team who had been given permission to go down town.

Fire Discovered

About 8:20 scholars discovered the cottage was on fire. William Makana, another of the teachers, hurried to the building with only garden hose to fight the blaze. He tried to enter the kitchen but found it too hot. It is said the cottage was then blazing fiercely in several parts.

Down in Lahaina the blaze was seen but it was thought it was came burning and at first no attention was paid to it and it was after 9 when the mill whistles blew.

Fortunately there was little wind blowing Friday evening and so the flames did not spread to other buildings but they had gained such headway when discovered that it was impossible to save the building.

It is regretted that Mrs. Hillner did not take the letter with her as, though it was unsigned, it might have afforded some clue to the writer.

Only Other Theory

The only other theory than incendiarism, the police say, is that there was an oil stove in the building reported to have been burning when Mrs. Hillner went out, but connected with the letter the theory of incendiarism with intent to burn the inmate would seem to carry more weight.

Deputy Sheriff Philip Pali of Lahaina was ill with grippe so George Cummings as ex-officio deputy sheriff of Maui went over to Lahaina Saturday.

P. H. Ross, representing the insurance company, went over Monday to adjust the loss.
